Kinmount Fall Fair

Youngsters cling to the sides as the dragon roller coaster gives them a taste of the excitement of the midway. The ride was one of many attractions at the Kinmount Fall Fair which brought thousands of spectators and participants to the community this past weekend.

Mavor defends county's restructuring process

Stanhope Reeve Jock Mavor has come to the defense of his fellow County Councillors in their approach to municipal restructuring.

Speaking at the annual general meeting of the Kushog Lake Property Owners Association on Saturday, Mavor told the gathering that the councillors have been carefully assessing all the options available to them. He noted that a number of studies had been carried out, by municipal clerks and an outside consultant, and while some savings were identified, they weren't significant enough to warrant action.

He told the meeting the councillors are still considering the options and he expects a direction might emerge before the end of the current three-year mandate. However he noted the council has been held up by the lack of reliable figures from the provincial government.

A questioner raised the spectre of the province arbitrarily imposing a restructuring plan on the county if the councillors did not find one on their own. Referring to a suggestion made by Snowdon Township council earlier this year to ask for an imposed decision, Mavor said it was highly unlikely the province would take such action. He told the meeting since the council is actively considering its options the province probably would not intervene at this point.

The question gave the reeve an opportunity to comment on the Snowdon reeve's recent comments and actions. Earlier this summer Simmons announced he was leaving municipal politics because of the lack of action in restructuring. He implied there was a lack of leadership at the county level. Mavor compared Simmons to the one child in a large family... "who whines and sulks when he doesn't get his own way." Mavor told the meeting, "I have yet to hear Reeve Simmons support any initiative that didn't come from him. In the three years that I have sat beside him at

Minden & Haliburton host Terry Fox runs

The 17th annual Terry Fox Run is scheduled for Sunday, September 14, with more than 350,000 participants expected to take part across Ontario.

Minden Run

Over the past three years, the Terry Fox Run in Minden has raised a total of $16,167 for cancer research. Last year, 116 participants raised $5,920.

Former organizers were unable to commit the time this year to run the event. But the tradition will continue. Volunteers are needed to assist with the organization and the actual operation of the event on September 14.

Anyone who would be interested in helping, especially those who have assisted with the event in the past, are asked to contact co-ordinator Jerry Grozelle at The Times (286-1288) or at home (286-4516).

The run will start at 9 a.m. at the upper level of the Minden Arena. Runners, walkers and cyclists will follow the same route as previous years. For those who wish to go the distance, which is approximately 15 kilometres, the turn-around point is Rackety Trail on the Deep Bay Road by North Pigeon Lake.

Check points will be set up at various distances, allowing participants to work within their own comfort levels. The full 15 kilometres will not be mandatory. The event is not a competition. The object is to raise as much as possible for cancer research.

A Terry Fox Run will be held in Haliburton September 14 from 10 a.m. to noon. It will start and finish at the Town Dock. Participants will proceed down County Road 1 to the South Kashagawigamog Lake Road and proceed to the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course. They will then follow the same course, in reverse, back to the Town Dock.

Andy Salvatori is the co-ordinator of the Haliburton run. He can be reached at 457-2100.

Gambell's Antiques (Ron Gambell), a business overlooking the finish line, was second winning $200 while the duck sponsored by Phyllis Sutherland placed third winning $100.

Minden business park starting to take shape

Work has started on the Anson Hindon and Minden business park.

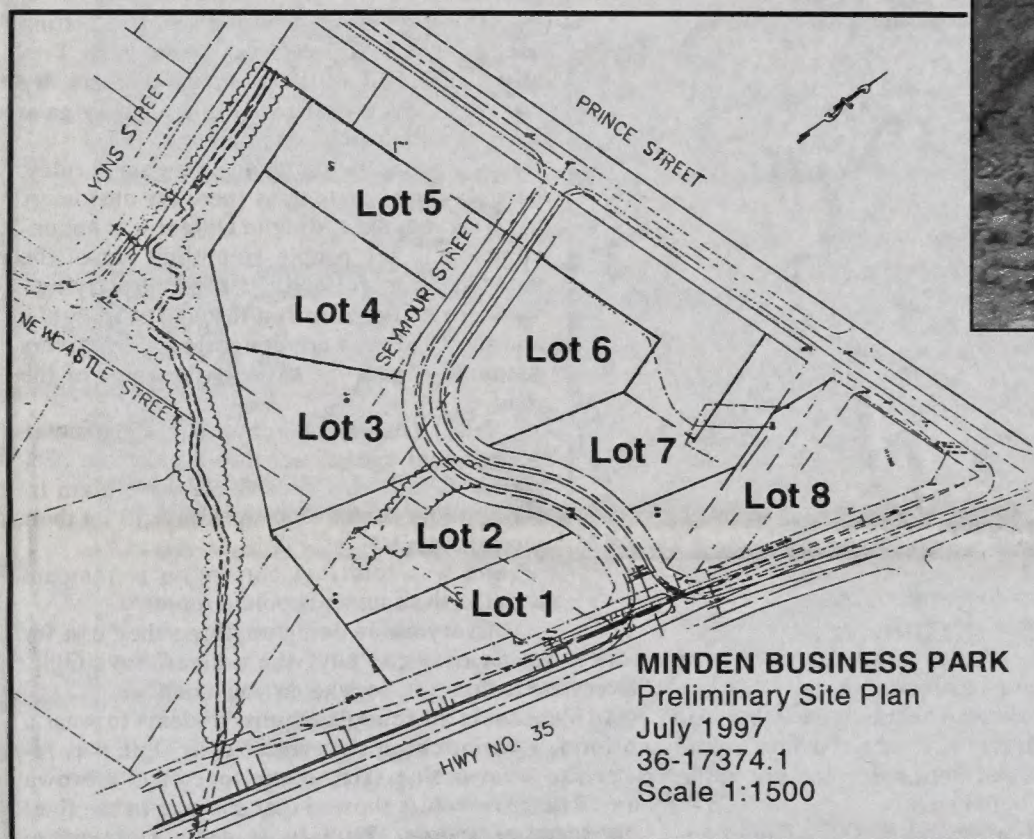

Located on a piece of property just south of Prince Street at Highway 35, it is hoped the park will attract new businesses to the community.

The land is being reconfigured to provide an even grade for the lots. As well, construction has started on the new road which curves through the park from Prince Street to Highway 35. The road, named Seymour Street, will serve the lots in the business park and carry village traffic to the highway. Prince street will be closed at Highway 35 once Seymour street is opened.

The current configuration for the park allows for up to eight lots to be accessed from the new street. The by-law creating the park states that the minimum size of each lot is half an acre. Municipal superintendent Clayton Cameron noted that while there is a minimum size, any business requiring additional space will be permitted to configure a piece of property to meet their needs.

While the graders and bull-dozers have been pushing back the soil to level the property and carve a road-bed, a stand of trees in the centre of the property will be retained. Cameron noted the trees will help to shield some of the park from the highway and "soften" the atmosphere of the area.

Cameron said the municipality has already received what he described as four serious inquiries about the park. He said the initial response to the undertaking has been generally positive. The municipality met with nearby property owners to explain to them what is taking place. It was suggested an effort will be made to respect the residential nature of the surrounding area.

Cameron noted that in addition to the easy road access to both the village and the highway, the lots in the business park will be on municipal sewer and water services. For those companies interested in modern communication facilities, Bell Canada's recently installed fibre optic network parallels the highway. The Bell switching station is located at the Prince Street, Highway 35 intersection.

Cameron said the initial work at the park will take about a month to complete. Once the water and sewer lines are installed and the road opened, tenants can begin construction. Inquiries about the business park can be directed to the municipal office in Minden.

Heavy equipment, above, has been levelling the property and preparing for the street and municipal services at Minden's new business park. The preliminary site plan, below, shows how eight lots could be developed although other configuration are possible.

Exchange student discovers

Venezuela is a land of contrasts

by Misty Bennett

Grade 12 student Jammie Ogle recently returned to the Highlands following a year-long stay in Venezuela. She was part of an exchange program organized by Rotary International. Her participation in the program was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Haliburton.

The West Guilford resident spent most of her time San Cristóbal, a city in the Andes Mountains, 40 minutes from the Colombian border.

Despite the tropical nature of the country the weather in the mountains was not oppressive. The average daily temperature was 24 degrees Celsius. The country was just starting into the winter season when she left. The city was lashed by torrential rains which come in (approximately) 40 minute downpours before the sun reappears and pleasant conditions return.

The mountain-side location of San Cristóbal ensures its moderate climate.

"There was snow at the top of the mountain in July and at the bottom it was really very hot. We were about 1800 metres above sea level," says Ogle.

Ogle stayed with two families while in Venezuela. The first, from September 23 to February 1. Ogle lived with her host mother, father and younger brother (age 16) in a small apartment.

The accommodations for the second family were grander. This family maintained a number of houses on their property, for extended family members. For the majority of the time, Ogle was with her host parents and her younger host sister (14 years old) as well as an older sister, age 25. However she also had a brother who was taking part in the Rotary exchange program. He returned in June. Her extended family also included two other sisters, 28 and 22, who lived in one of the other houses on the property.

Needless to say, the second family was part of the upper class of the community.

"I came home from school one day and saw a car I didn't recognize in the driveway. I asked my sister about it, and she replied, 'Oh, Dad bought a new car.' Silly me, I thought maybe we had company," says Ogle commenting on the affluence of the family. "After all, they already had nine cars."

The family maintained three house staff, (a maid is not uncommon in Venezuela) one each for cooking, cleaning and laundry. A chauffeur was also kept for use by Ogle and the younger sister, who was not of age to drive.

Although Ogle was on exchange with Rotary International, she noted a huge difference in attitude between the Rotarians here and those of Venezuela.

"It was more of a status thing for them. I went to four or five of the meetings, but no one really seemed to care too much about doing anything. Everyone thought I was from the United States," says Ogle.

"Basically I was on my own exchange. If you wanted something done, you had to do it yourself."

One of the largest differences Ogle found was in the cultural practises of the Venezuelans. Compared to anyone see them in a moderately dishevelled state.

"I found the people really superficial," says Ogle, "everyone would check your jeans, and if they weren't CK or Levis they would talk behind your back."

Between 12 p.m. and 2 p.m. everything shuts down and Ogle had a hard time adjusting to the break in the middle of the day. Venezuelans eat their main meal at lunch time, nap for the rest of the lunch break and then return to work.

The school day ends at 1 p.m. All the students arrive home from school and the maid prepares a meal. Everyone sits down at one o'clock for the main meal. It is expected that no one calls during lunch and one would never consider not coming home for lunch. The meal is a strictly enforced tradition, a chance for the entire family to sit down together.

"The large noon meal took a little getting used to. The first time I was given lunch, I really just picked a little at what was there. By dinner time I was starving and all they gave me was a sandwich," says Ogle.

In Venezuela there are very few rules; bars stay open as long as there are customers to be served. According to Ogle it was not uncommon to see people stumbling out of the bars at 11 a.m. following a night of partying.

It's not illegal to run through stop lights, and the roadways are congested with drivers seemingly ignoring most of the rules of the road.

"It's basically anarchy. The Venezuelan government doesn't set the rules so the people do. I think that society can't maintain itself without limits, so people have to set their own standards."

She was told that corruption is rampant through the country's police forces

"Everyone is doing anything they can for money, so it's easy to 'buy' the police," says Ogle. "Everyone is doing it, so who do you nail?"

In Venezuela all schools require students to wear a uniform, a variation on the same outfit. Ogle was required to wear a blue skirt, black shoes and a brown shirt. The brown shirt showed that she was in the final two years of school. Primary students wore white shirts, bearing the school crest and the intermediate Jammie Ogle: back from a year in Venezuela.

Canada, she found many of their practises were what might be considered "old fashioned" here. Girls are not permitted to go out alone. They must be accompanied by a boyfriend. The guy will be waited on by the girl and girls don't go out without being dressed to the nines with make up and high heels.

School began at 7:30 a.m. and mothers would get up at 5 a.m. in order to shower and fix their hair and make-up before driving the children to school, lest

Pre-Planning ... A Thoughtful Way of Caring.

When you die, your loved ones will have to deal not only with their sorrow and loss in your passing, but also with the many details and decisions required in planning your funeral arrangements.

By caring enough to pre-plan these arrangements you can ease the burden of your family during this difficult time. With pre-planning, you specify arrangements that might otherwise cause sadness, confusion, even differences of opinion among family members. You make the choices - even determine the cost - involved in your funeral, bringing peace of mind to yourself and to your family with the knowledge that they will not have to decide what your wishes might have been.

Planning for the future is logical, wise, and caring. Don't let this important time be an exception.

Good news for a change

Editorial

As the community emerges from another busy summer season, there are any number of good reasons for optimism. Augmented by nearly perfect summer weather, the Highlands economy has once again recovered a summer vibrancy that for some was nothing more than a distant memory.

This increase in summer activity was reflected in area businesses. Most merchants report a busier summer than they have seen in a number of years. Not only were there more customers, but they were spending more. As well, there was a greater feeling of confidence among consumers and merchants alike. Hopefully this renewed optimism will be reflected in a brighter outlook for the community in general.

The other positive sign on the horizon is that work has started at Minden's business park. Adjacent to Highway 35, connected to municipal water and sewer services, and able to reach out to the world through Bell's fibre optic telephone line which parallels the highway, the park is sure to be a welcome addition to the area's economy. Reports that a number of serious enquiries have been received from business interested in locating in the park, are a strong indication that the park was introduced at the right time and that it will fill a need long left wanting in this area.

Positive signs and a positive outlook. After several years of disappointing news it is encouraging to finally see an upswing.

How much should we pay our MPs?

by Brian Kelcy

There was much gnashing of teeth and chirping from the various interest groups recently over the government's announcement that an independent, special, three member commission will review compensation for parliamentarians. Not that we can blame those commentators who immediately voiced a resounding 'NO!' to the question of pay raises.

When you consider the fact that the Liberal house leader waited until the Friday before the August long weekend to make the announcement....it only breeds greater public cynicism around a very important issue. Opportunistic timing aside, any discussion of pay for politicians deserves careful consideration.

Canada's MPs make a base salary of $64,400. Added to this are benefits and a tax-free expense allowance that ranges from $21,300 to $28,200 depending on the location and the size of the MP's riding. A privileged few receive more cash, namely Cabinet Ministers, Leaders of Parties, Committee Chairs, etc.

The argument for pay raises hinges on two main points. The first argument suggests that MPs need pay equity with the private sector. The second suggests that high pay is needed to attract the "right type" of individual to public life. The equity argument must be put into proper context. The visibility, scrutiny, potential loss of career mobility and family pressure that comes with being an MP or Cabinet Minister is immense. Not many private sector positions come with such external pressures attached.

However, public service is also a privilege and an opportunity to write your own ticket. After tending to all the daily responsibilities that constituents require, an individual member has the opportunity to make her/himself an expert in public policy. Witness former Conservative MP Patrick Boyer's expertise in direct democracy, or current MPs like Liberal Dennis Mills. His relentless pursuit for a flat tax stands alongside Reformer John Williams' continuous efforts to expose government waste.

As for attracting individuals to public life, we can only hope that monetary rewards are never used as a primary motivator to encourage individuals to seek office. We want and need those individuals who desire to make a difference, and be compensated for it as an afterthought.

In presentations before various provincial commissions, the Canadian Taxpayers Federation has consistently espoused three principles which apply to the federal situation.

Transparency

Full disclosure of all expenditures

(personal and office related). In addition these expenditures and how they are paid must be presented to the public in a clear and understandable fashion.

Fairness

No double standards should be employed. This necessitates an end to tax-free allowances and lucrative pension plans. A move to a group RRSP with defined contribution principles is warranted. Participation in this plan should be voluntary and flexible.

Accountability

When an expense allowance is provided to a member for the fulfilment of duties, full disclosure provisions must be instituted to allow the members to be held accountable for the expenditure of public monies.

Too often, politicians find themselves pitted against taxpayers over the issue of compensation. The politicians often argue as a last resort that the dollars involved do not justify the rage that comes in response. What politicians-- MPs in particular--must learn is that taxpayers aren't angered by the pay so much as they are by the lack of fairness, accountability and transparency.

Taxpayers know that politicians are normal people too. So why can't they be paid the same way normal people are?

Brian Kelcy is a spokesman for the Canadian Taxpayers Federation.

Municipal restructuring in Haliburton County

Working toward a new model

This is the third in a series of articles on municipal restructuring prepared by former Haliburton County Planner Mark Stagg.

BARRIERS TO ACTION

People feel comfortable with the known; the unknown, the new, is often frightening and so is resisted. This holds for many matters including municipal government reorganization.

There is also a frequent, but unproven, perception that "big is bad". In some places, it is claimed that local politicians don't want to surrender either their salaries or the power and influence they wield. There is a hesitation, especially in smaller communities, to effectively bite the bullet since everyone knows everyone else. This includes the staff that could be redundant if the real economics of restructuring were to be achieved.

All of the foregoing are normal human behavioural traits. To what degree they are relevant in Haliburton County is a matter of individual opinion. It is necessary to recognize that the service level expectations of seasonal residents can be different from those of permanent residents.

Seasonal residents outnumber the permanent by 2 1/2 to 1. There are some differences between what services might be perceived as necessary to support seasonal recreational activities and those required to facilitate the broader needs of the county community and its permanent residents.

Extremely low municipal tax rates, popular to a majority, are often insufficient to fund forward looking municipal activities critical to the orderly and economic development and prosperity of the whole populace.

THE ONE AND A HALF TIER SYSTEM

We will never please everyone, but if we could satisfy local politicians and both permanent and seasonal residents by

- retaining some of the popular features of our present two tier municipal government system, and

- achieving the economies of a one tier service delivery system, then maybe progress might come easier and quicker. Here are two ways this could be organized:

Model A: County Council plus a number of Township Councils (10 or preferably 4 or 3 as now being examined). Township Councils would continue to decide what services they wanted and the tax rates to pay for them. The county would deliver those services. Councils would need a secretary who could staff a public counter and communicate with various county departments by computer. The public would have a local office and there would be local political control on local matters.

Model B: County Council plus a number of elected Community Committees (10 or preferably a smaller number). County Council would establish a minimum level of service for all matters. The local Community Committee could set higher service standards as it wished and an additional tax for its service area would be levied. All services would be provided by the county, but a decent element of local control would be maintained. A minimal staff and office as for Model A would be provided for each Community Committee.

SOME LOOMING PROBLEMS AND NEEDS

Last week it was estimated that property taxes in 1998 within Haliburton County could increase by 16% (or by about 23% if hospital construction costs are paid off quickly) to pay for the service responsibilities handed on by the Province. There are other additional problems and needs looming, either because remedial action has been delayed or because of emerging circumstances and priorities. A short listing includes:

- failing septic systems causing lake and ground water pollution,
- depleted landfill site capacities and some contamination plumes into adjoining lands,
- general need for watershed management policies,
- completion of County Official Plan (which could address watershed and other environmental concerns)
- significant commercial space vacancies in Minden and Haliburton, persistent very high unemployment levels, high level of unpaid municipal taxes, and need for stepped up economic development promotion,
- some deterioration of road conditions,
- loss of municipal tax revenue on forest agreement properties,
- privatization of operations where cost effective.

WHAT NEXT?

In 1998 the County receives a range of additional responsibilities, senior government funding will decline, and other problems and challenges loom with increasing

Old Canadian proverb

A curious thing, our on-going love affair with driving automobiles. Especially curious when you consider what lousy drivers so many of us are.

But don't take my word for it - ask your friendly local insurance adjuster. Or perhaps he or she's not so friendly anymore. Adjusting accident insurance claims will do that to a person.

I don't know if you've had a car accident lately, but there's always a space on the insurance form where the driver is asked to summarize the details of his or her mishap in the fewest possible words.

Here are just a few of the claims that have been turned in:

- I collided with a stationary truck coming the other way.
- In an attempt to kill a fly, I drove into a telephone pole.
- I told the police I was not injured, but on removing my hat I found that I had fractured my skull.

- The guy was all over the road. I had to swerve a number of times before I hit him.

Sometimes the excuses offered by drivers have a 'physical disabilities' component:

- I was on the way to the doctor with rear end trouble when my universal joint gave way causing me to have an accident.

And sometimes the cause of the accident is right out of the X Files:

- An invisible car came out of nowhere, struck my car and vanished.

The odd driver will try to enlist the sympathy of the insurance claims adjuster:

- I pulled away from the side of the road, glanced at my mother-in-law and headed over the embankment.

Other drivers are quick to give credit to emergency support and rescue teams:

- I was thrown from the car as it left the road. I was later found in a ditch by some stray cows.

And finally there are some accident victims who sound too confused to fill out a form, much less drive a car:

- Coming home, I drove into the wrong house and collided with a tree I don't have.

Speaking of confused drivers, I am delighted to report that Sue Evan-Jones of Yate, England, has her driver's licence.

Finally. She's been trying to get it for the past 27 years. During that time, Ms. Evan-Jones has dropped the equivalent of $30,000 paying for 18 hundred driving lessons and wearing out ten consecutive driving instructors.

The first time she tried the test she ploughed the car into a construction site. The second time, she cut off a car that was trying to pass her.

One of those.. striped cars, you know? With the flashing lights on top and POLICE written on the fender?

The third time Sue Evan-Jones tried the test she knocked over a small army of traffic cones.

But as I say, that's all behind her now. Sue Evan-Jones finally passed her test.

Which must be a relief for her husband, Dave.

He's a police traffic control officer.

Could be worse. He could have been an automobile accident insurance adjuster.

County restructuring

urgency for action.

The financial and other impacts this will cause may be reduced, not eliminated, if the municipal government system is streamlined, rationalized and strengthened. The sooner the better. It is not yet known exactly what new responsibilities local government will receive nor the Provincial contribution towards their cost. Indeed as already acknowledged in these articles one has to reach to other County studies even to get into "the ballpark" with some preliminary cost estimates.

Having finite information before final decisions are made is a responsible approach. It is not however an excuse, meanwhile, to do nothing.

The examination of possible municipal restructuring now commenced needs to move into top gear to be ready to commit to implementing action as quickly as possible.

CONCLUSION

If we care about the County of Haliburton, if we cherish its beauty, its environment, its traditions and its lifestyles, if we want to improve its economy and restore its financial well being, then we need to express our support for the needed remedial action. We need surgery, not band-aids.

Hospitality Inn on South Lake was the unique locale for a book signing recently. Susan Wilson, author of the newly published book Explore Haliburton, was on hand on the shore of the lake to talk to area residents and autograph copies of her book. Seen here with Wilson, left, are, from the right, Phyllis Brown, host Denise LeBlanc and Phyllis DeGrace.

Terry Fox Run

The annual Terry Fox Run will take place in Minden (starting at 9 a.m.) and in Haliburton (starting at 10 a.m.) on Sunday, September 14

TOP SENIORS: Ian Hollas (left) was the top senior of the Haliburton Highlands Golf Tournament and he had the best score of all the event's golfers with a nine-hole score of 39. Ryan Wood (centre) and Dan Neilson were second and third, respectively, in the senior division.

Young golfers' talents demonstrated at Junior Tournament

by Jerry Grozelle

Some impressive scores were turned in at the first Junior Golf Tournament at the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course on Wednesday, August 27.

Ian Hollas, who competed in the senior division of the tournament, had the best score of the day, a 39. Second place among the seniors was Ryan Wood, with a 41. Dan Neilson was one stroke back of Wood, taking third with a score of 42.

The juniors proved to be just as adept at the sport.

Ryan Baker topped the junior field with a score of 40. Warren Cooper was second with 42 and third went to Justin Sharpley with a round of 43.

Organizers pointed out that in case of a tie, the golfer with the best score on the most difficult hole(s) would be declared the winner.

Ryan Baker took the closest to the hole prize for the juniors and Dan Neilson took that honour for the senior division.

Warren Cooper had the longest drive among the juniors and Jesse Loughheed had the longest drive of the seniors' group.

The most honest golfer award went to Stuart English. His honesty earned English a lesson with Ken Rosenberg.

The idea for the tournament came from Ryan Hutson. Hutson says he was golfing with Chris Young when he mentioned he wished there was a tournament for junior golfers. A lady who was golfing ahead of them suggested he organize one. Hutson recruited Ryan Wood and they talked to Haliburton Highlands Golf Club officials. Pro shop manager at the golf course, Warren Moon, says the two boys did most of the work organizing the event themselves.

"They had to turn people away because there wasn't room enough to accommodate them all," Moon said. "It was an excellent day."

Moon says it will likely become an annual event and he speculates that there will be 100 junior golfers participating in the 1998 tournament.

"We'll have to give them the whole day next year," Moon said.

Hutson said the inaugural event had a total of 50 competitors -- 25 in the senior division (aged 13 to 15) and 25 in the junior division (aged 10-12).

Local businesses supported the event with donations of items for the prize table. Hutson said the Haliburton Highlands Golf Club was very helpful.

A film crew from TVOntario recorded the event, which will be aired some time in January.

Inaugural Stanhope Triathlon exceeds expectations

by Jerry Grozelle

The inaugural Stanhope Triathlon exceeded expectations for organizers Lois Foster and Carrie Martin.

"We had decided that if we got 25 participants for the first event, it would be a success," Foster said. "We had 53, which was more than doubled what we had hoped for."

Three classes guaranteed there was a level to suit any competitor for the event.

The Sprint class was for the more serious triathletes. It featured a 750 metre swim, a 20 kilometre bike ride and a five kilometre run. The "Get Your Feet Wet" class required competitors to complete a 375 metre swim, 10 kilometre bike ride and 2.5 kilometre run. The Kids class, which was for the young and young at heart, with no age restriction, featured a 100 metre swim, three kilometre bike ride and one kilometre run.

Participants in the Kids class ranged in age from five years (the youngest of the day) to 63 years (the day's most senior participant). Sean Martin of Mississauga was the youngster and Peter Brogden of Haliburton was the senior.

Foster says she expects a much bigger event next year, with a higher level of competition.

The event included everyone from the serious athlete to people who had never competed in such an event before. The two organizers had the assistance of about 25 volunteers who helped to make the event a success. Also vital to the success of the inaugural Stanhope Triathlon was the support of local merchants who donated products and services for prizes. Foster gave a special mention to both the Minden IGA and the Minden valu-mart, donors of refreshments for the triathlon participants, and to Bruce Griffith of Haliburton, who provided timer equipment.

The participants each received Stanhope Triathlon -- I Did It T-shirts, which were designed by Foster and Martin.

First place in the men's division of the Sprint Class went to Peter Oyler, 27, of Toronto, with a time of 1:07:45. That was the best overall time of the Sprint class.

Second among the men was Dan Howat, 31, of Toronto. His time was 1:10:34.

Graeme Smith, 34, of Kingston, placed third with a time of 1:13:20.

First place in the women's division of the Sprint class went to Nancy Morrison, 38, of Kanata. Her time was 1:20:37.

Lisa St. John, 27, of Oshawa, placed second, with a time of 1:27:43.

Third went to Tory Wilgar, 31, of Toronto, in 1:29:06.

The men's division of the Get Your Feet Wet class was won by Jason Mueller. The 20 year-old Haliburton native finished the race in 45 minutes and 28 seconds.

Konan Wendt, 17, of Eagle Lake was just two seconds behind the winner with a time of 45:30.

John Rameka, 35, of Ajax took third place with a time of 46:52.

The women's division saw Kristy Gamm, 35, of Haliburton finish first. Her time was 49:14.

Second place went to Janet Bottom, 36, of Haliburton, with a time of 50:13.

Jane Heyes, 48, of Haliburton was third in 51 minutes and 28 seconds.

The male division of the Kids class was won by 16 year-old Les Wilson of Beech Lake, with a time of 16:52.

Andy Kinsman, 12, of Boshkung

Lake, was second (17:34).

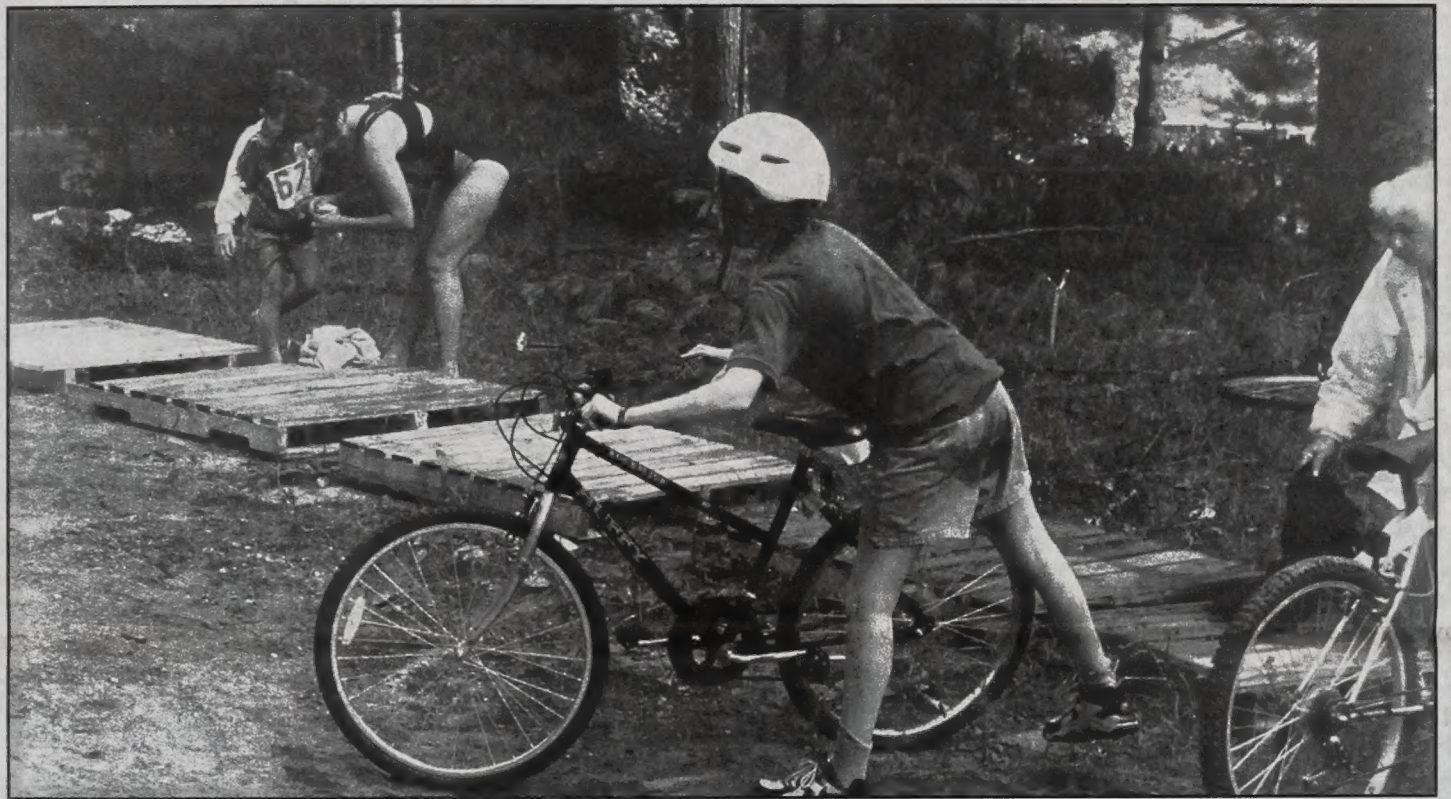

Third, with a time of 17:57, went to Ryan O'Shea of Toronto.

The female division of the Kids class saw 10 year-old twin sisters from Downsview finish first and second. Kristine Bunker edged her sister by 21 seconds for first place with a time of 17:38. Sandra Bunker's time was 17:59, for second spot.

Lee Anne Maxwell, 14, of Toronto placed third with a time of 20:18.

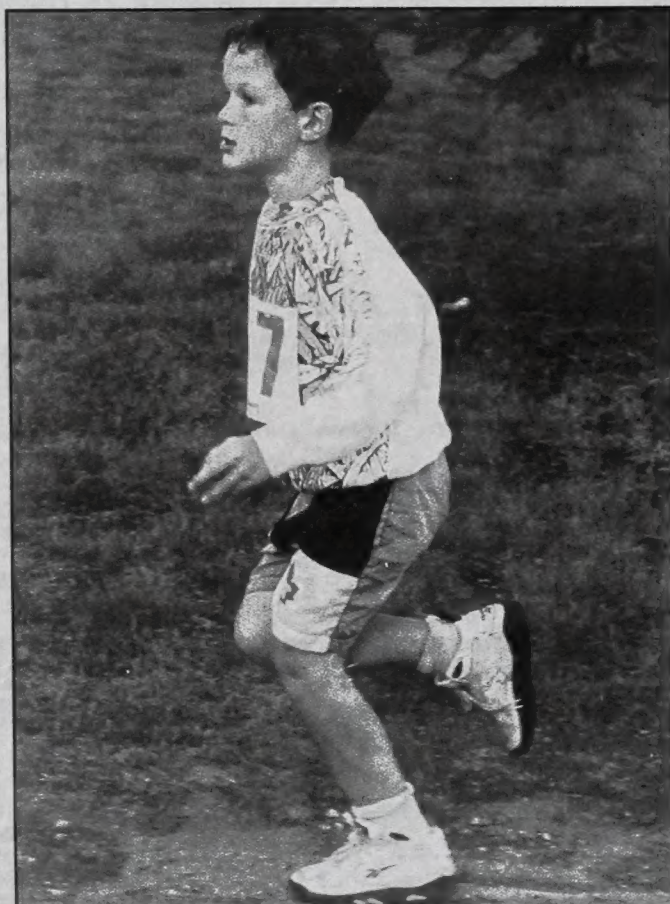

The Sprint class had a total of 20 competitors; the Get Your Feet Wet class had 16; and the Kids class had 17.

The date has already been set for the 1998 Stanhope Triathlon. Mark August 22, 1998 on your calendar.

SECOND LEG: Participants in the Stanhope Triathlon begin the second section of the event on bicycles, after finishing the swimming portion. A run to the finish line completed the three parts of the event.

YOUNGEST: Five year-old Sean Martin was the youngest competitor in the Stanhope Triathlon.

Minden bowling leagues need participants of all ages

The Minden County Bowling Centre Five Pin Bowling Association is planning an interesting 1997-98 season. The committee held its first meeting, during which the leagues were organized. League play will start soon and bowlers are needed for some of the leagues.

Most of the following leagues have room for at least a few bowlers.

The bowling week kicks off with the Legion Branch 636 Mixed League, which starts at 1 p.m.

A Mixed League will take to the lanes on Monday evenings, starting at 7:30.

The first of two seniors leagues takes to the alleys at 1 p.m. Tuesdays.

Another mixed league bowls Tuesday evenings beginning at 7 o'clock. All ages are welcome.

The Men's League is slated for Wednesdays at 7 p.m. This league is also for all ages.

The second seniors mixed league will be Thursdays at 1:30 p.m.

Another evening of mixed bowling will be Thursdays, starting at 7. This league is open to all ages as well.

The senior leagues are open to anyone aged 55 and over.

Under the direction of the Youth Bowling Council (YBC), a great program for kids is planned for Saturdays. Two age groups of young bowlers will see action. The three to 11 age group will take to the lanes at 9:30 a.m. and the 12 to 18 age group will bowl, beginning at 11 a.m.

Anyone interested in meeting people, having some fun and getting some exercise, is invited to contact the County Bowling Centre at 286-1476 or drop by the facility on Highway 35 below Westside Jug City.

The final Music By The Gull free concert was held Friday evening with entertainer Doug Goodeve performing. This was the second appearance for the Gull River cottager, whose repertoire of classic tunes was a hit with the audience.

The season's first tournament will be the "Bring A Friend Night" on Saturday, September 27, starting at 7 p.m. Anyone interested in participating should contact tournament director Michelle Moore at the Bowling Centre.

Several other tournaments are in the planning stages for the coming season. Information on these tournaments will be posted at the Bowling Centre as details are available.

ties. Since 1980, more than $180-million has been raised by participants in Terry Fox Runs in communities across Canada. More than 4,000 events such as the ones in Minden and Haliburton will take place across Canada on September 14.

"Cancer research could never have made the advances it has without the dedicated participation of thousands of Canadians," said Terry Fox Foundation provincial director Martha McClew.

The 1997 event has been designated "The Year of the Participant" by the Foundation, in appreciation of all those who will run, walk, stroll, and roller blade their way toward the goal of finding cures for the various forms of cancer.

"We think we have the best participants of any charity in Canada," says McClew. "From five year-old Alexander, who has participated since he was in the womb to 72 year-old Bill, who has raised more than $200,000, there is no end to the wonderful, compassionate people who support a cause that touches us all."

One of the most memorable moments in Canadian history occurred on April 12, 1980, when Terrance Stanley Fox dipped his artificial leg into the Atlantic Ocean and set off on his cross-Canada Marathon of Hope to raise money for cancer research. After capturing the collective soul of Canadians, Terry was forced to end his run on September 1, 1980, when cancer spread to his lungs. Although Terry died less than a year later, his odyssey, in reality, had just begun.

Determined to realize Terry's goal of a world without cancer, Canadians picked up where he left off. Since the Marathon of Hope began, more than $180-million has been raised for cancer research.

"On Sunday, September 14, Terry Fox Run participants will be out there, rain or shine, snow or heatwave, not only to commemorate Terry's effort, but also in tribute to those close to them who have battled cancer," McClew said. "Without our participants, there would be no Terry Fox Run and much less hope for the future of cancer research in Canada. They drive research forward in this country and we are so proud to be worthy of their support year after year."

Mavor slams Simmons

County Council, he has never once asked me what the people in Stanhope would like (in relation to the issue under discussion)."

"Reeve Simmons has a problem operating his own municipality," Mavor said. "And he appears to want to reduce the other municipalities to his level of mediocrity. The man has a one track mind."

Deputy Reeve Eleanor Harrison told the gathering that the township is attempting to find cost savings by sharing expenses with neighbouring municipalities. She pointed out that the township shares the cost of its by-law enforcement officer with Sherborne et al and has initiated a number of joint road projects... sharing equipment and manpower.

Mavor was asked if he would consider running again for Reeve. He reiterated an announcement he made at an earlier lake association meeting that he would not be contesting the upcoming municipal election. Kushog Association president Norma Goodger praised the reeve for his efforts, as well as the other members of council and the municipal staff for their hard work on behalf of the residents. "We are so fortunate to live in Stanhope Township," she said. Her comments were greeted with a round of applause.

(Additional reports from the Kushog meeting will appear in the next edition of The Times.)

Raptors' donation boosts local Kinark program

A $5000 donation from the Toronto Raptors basketball team has helped boost the Kinark Child and Family Services Neighbourhood Development Program. The Kinark facility, north of Minden, is the location for the program.

The Neighbourhood Development Program targets neighbourhoods or communities where there are high populations of families at risk. These could be neighbourhoods which are facing high youth crime rates, racial and/or cultural issues, high degrees of drug or alcohol abuse, high rates of spousal and/or child abuse, higher than average school drop out rates.

The program acts as a catalyst, bringing the families together to work towards solutions that can be put in place once the group returns from the camping weekend. The program has three phases 1) pre-camp planning and promotion 2) camp visit and neighbourhood meeting 3) post-camp follow-up.

Jim McHardy notes that, "it's amazing what you see happen over the course of this program. Groups arrive at the first planning meeting and often you can cut the tension with a knife. What holds them together though, is their common desire to make their neighbourhood better for their kids. What we also see is that for many of the families who take part, this may be their first camping experience and a rare chance for a 'family' get-away. Parents share things with their children that they would never otherwise experience without this program - like catching their first fish or getting in a paddle boat for the first time.

The $5000 donation from the Raptors Foundation enabled approximately 85 children, teens and parents from a South Oshawa neighbourhood to participate in this program this summer.

The Raptors Foundation was established in 1995 by Toronto Raptors' Basketball Club, Inc. and provides funding to registered charities that sponsor sports and other youth programs primarily aimed at young people in high risk situations.

New manager

A new manager has taken over at PineStone. Trevor Morgan, right, assumed the position at the resort in August. Hans Gerhardt, left, representing the new owners, RHK Capital, is seen here with the manager, at the entrance to the Inn. Gerhardt points to a sign announcing renovations taking place at the property and requesting the understanding of guests for any inconvenience. Morgan, who was assistant general manager at Huntsville's Deerhurst Resort, replaces Andy Frappier who managed the resort for 15 months. The renovations include updating 60 guest rooms, adding a fitness centre and introducing new services such as in-room movie rentals.

Brothers meet Maple Lake challenge

Two youngsters visiting with their grandparents, Betty and Bill Milford, have met the challenge of Maple Lake according to their proud parents. Larry and Mary Milford who wrote, "On July 23, Tyler, left, struck out from the north shore, of the lake, just in front of the grandparents' cottage, and swam diagonally across the lake, a distance of approximately two kilometres. He was accompanied by his father and younger brother Brandon in a boat. Not to be outdone, Brandon, above, repeated the feat the next day. Both completed the swim in under an hour, aided by swim fins." The youngsters are thinking they might like to try an end-to-end swim of the lake, but feel a little more practise may be in store before undertaking the longer distance, without the aid of fins.

Water levels 6% below normal

The wet weather and reduced flows from the Haliburton area resulted in a decline of only 1.7% from last week, to 57% on the Trent-Severn reservoir lakes. This was about 6% below normal for this time of the year. These lakes had been as much as 9% low earlier.

On the Kawartha Lakes, on the canal route, a small surplus now exists so no additional release of water is expected to be necessary from the reserve lakes this week. The Kawartha Lakes received about 28 mm of rain late last week, which was more than fell in the Haliburton area.

The Ontonabee River flow to Lake Ontario had to be increased above minimum to help reduce the surplus.

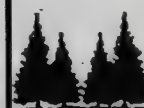

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching is somewhat above its guideline level for the time of year due to reduced evaporation and rain. It was below normal earlier as well.

Venezuelan students wear uniforms to school students were dressed in blue shirts.

All students are in the same school, from primary, about 4 years old, to 18 years.

Ogle, like all other students in Venezuela, did not get to choose her classes. Everyone studies the same subjects. In fact, she admits it's very much like primary school where the students stay in one classroom and the teachers come to them.

Ogle was enrolled in a private school at the cost of $20 per month. Her school specialized in the sciences. At age 14, students are required to choose a specialization of the humanities or sciences.

"Parents really push their kids towards the sciences. Among the 20 schools in the city, there might have been two humanities schools. They really seem to be looked down on."

Final examinations consist of one page of 20 true or false questions. These are taken at the end of a regular period of learning. Exam days are much like any other in school and are not taken very seriously. There are six periods in a day and two breaks so it feels more like a three class day.

Ogle found the classrooms lacked many of the amenities to which she has grown accustomed. The classrooms were virtually bare. There were no clocks, no globes and few other teaching aids.

"In chemistry class we didn't do any experiments. There wasn't any money for supplies, so we read about doing experiments and what would happen. School was a very boring place," says

Ogle.

Often times, Ogle would read in English to the younger students to help some of the teachers. The students, who learn English as a second language, were then able to hear how the language is spoken.

During her year in Venezuela Ogle acquired a comfort level with the Spanish language. She can understand movies, television shows and conversations. She found it difficult to form sentences in her early days in Venezuela, but found that with time she acquired the skills necessary to converse in the language.

"The conjugations of the verbs were really hard to get at first, but then you start to get used to the patterns."

Poverty

Just about everyone who asks about her experiences is curious about the poverty and the third world status of the country. Although the poverty is severe in Venezuela, Ogle was never exposed to it.

"The people turn a blind eye to the poverty. Occasionally in the centre of town you would see people with no teeth or only one arm begging at the side of the street," says Ogle. "We stayed away from the 'bad' parts of the town. There was no need to go there and it was dangerous if you did."

Ogle admits that she wasn't lacking anything in the families with whom she was staying. One would never believe there was such rampant poverty unless you went looking for it. As she said, people turn a blind eye.

Ogle estimates that 80% of the people in San Cristóbal (population 800,000) lived in extreme poverty. In some case 20 people sharing a one bedroom house, without running water.

Side trips

Ogle was able to participate in a number of trips with the AFS exchange students. Rotary hosted 10 exchange students, from either the United States or Canada, in the same city as Ogle, but didn't plan any trips for the students. However the Rotary students were allowed to travel with the AFS organization which hosted students from all over the world.

Side-trip included visit to Amazon rainforest trip into the Amazon rainforest, in the south of Venezuela, where they travelled on the Orinoco river. Ogle went white-water rafting and toured sites of "piranha infested waters". There were about 60 people on the trip in total, 50 students plus chaperones. The group visited natural water slides, saw toucans and wild parrots in the forest as well as a tarantula going about his daily business.

The students also travelled to Merida in the world's highest and longest cable car. It took the car about an hour and a half to reach its destination, following three stops to allow people to get off and enjoy the view.

The group also travelled to the Grand Savannah, the location of the movie Jungle to Jungle. The Tepuis Mountains, known for their flat tops, are located here. Only now are they beginning to figure out the mysteries of the Tepuis.

"They think that they were once volcanoes, and are now discovering whole new ecosystems that are alive inside them. There are plants and animals they have never seen before," says Ogle.

Angel Falls, the highest waterfall in the world cascades from the Tepuis mountains.

Ogle was five degrees above the equator, so she noticed things in the sky that were a little different.

"The moon was like a smile, and the dipper was nearly inverted, everything listed a bit, but didn't quite flip over."

When school starts this September, Ogle will be returning to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School to finish two required grade 12 classes and pick up some more OACs. When she graduates, she hopes to get into a concurrent education program to become an English teacher, and take a minor in Political Science. Her hope is to teach English in South America while looking for something in the political arena.

"Someday I'll be the ambassador to Venezuela," she says with a smile.

Advisory board re-appointed

Natural Resources Minister Chris Hodgson commended the valuable advice given by the Fish and Wildlife Advisory Board by re-appointing all 11 members and expanding their priorities. Among the members is Haliburton resident Pat Kennedy.

"Board chair Phil Morlock and the other members have worked hard and are very effective," Hodgson said. The board provides solid, thought-provoking advice on how best to spend dollars on fish and wildlife.

In addition to Kennedy, the board members include: Phil Morlock of Whitney; Charles Alexander of Dryden; Gary Ball of Peterborough; Walt Crawford of Elora; Sandy Dickson of Atikokan; Brian Dykstra of Marten River; Sandi Johnson of London; Jack Newton of Huntsville; George Purvis of Gore Bay; and Duncan Sinclair of Aylmer.

Last year the provincial government created a special account for fish and wildlife revenues. The special account - which is set in law - ensures that all fishing and hunting revenues go back into fish and wildlife programs.

The board was created to provide advice on how to best spend those dollars. Board recommendations have included:

- More funding for enforcement of conservation laws;

- revitalizing the Community Fisheries Involvement Program (CFIP) and the Community Wildlife Involvement Program (CWIP) with a record $1-million in funding;

- and expansion of recreational fishing for lake trout on 48 Ontario lakes.

This year Hodgson has asked the board to provide advice on potential revenue sources and continued expansion of fishing and hunting opportunities.

Solid base for careful planning exists in the county

--submitted--

High levels of commitment and enthusiasm were once again demonstrated by participants at the second strategic planning session on August 21, held in Stanhope Firefighters' Hall. Despite the fact that the focus was more tightly targeted this time, over 50 people participated in the five afternoon workshops and 40 in the four evening workshops.

The ideas and information generated from this session and the previous one will be the foundation for the strategic plan that will be presented formally to County Council on September 17.

From all of the discussions, three points emerged. First, there is a very high level of commitment within the county population to become involved in shaping the area's future. Many of the working groups' presentations emphasized the importance of developing mechanisms to facilitate ongoing participation, to encourage dialogue, monitoring and evaluation of projects, leading to implementation. Dealing with these "process" issues constitutes one of the most important ways of strengthening the perceived quality of life in the County - getting people to contribute and feel they have a productive and valued role to play in their "community".

Second: Haliburton County residents, both seasonal and permanent, have shown they can be creative in developing ideas for specific projects, both to address perceived issues and to capture emerging opportunities. The challenge in the strategic plan and in the ongoing process of strategic planning, will be to draw out the inter-linkages between many of the projects and establish the most effective means for implementation.

These first two points were very effectively demonstrated by the "youth" group at the session. They said they wanted a role to play and desire to be recognized as valuable players in the County's development

- after all, they are an integral part of the County's future. Their presentation was one of the highlights of the workshop presentations, demonstrating that our youths are as capable of strategic thinking and of developing coherent project proposals as any other segment of the population.

Third: the vision of the County as a place in which a small town atmosphere dominates, where development respects the integrity of the natural environment and in which all segments of the population have a valued role to play has been endorsed time and again in the strategic planning sessions. Not surprisingly, many groups spoke of the conditions under which development should take place, particularly in pursuit of many, inter-linked small and medium scale projects (for example: in the economic development area). This does not mean, of course, that we push aside modern technology. On the contrary, using modern communications technology is critical to successful development of a small and medium sized business network in several activity domains in the county.

Haliburton County's population is on a threshold. Considerable momentum has been built up over the last year and this has helped enormously in the strategic planning sessions. The discussions and input generated by Haliburton County residents indicated they do not want to stand still but want to get involved in managing change under their terms. With these attitudes, our neighbours will soon be looking at Haliburton County as an example of how to manage development successfully.

(A copy of the summary report for the August 21 session will be sent to participants this week. Anyone else wishing to see a copy should call Tamara Wilbee at the County office, 705-286-1333. Copies of the July 24th session are also still available.)

Mud-spattered, weary but happy, these enduro riders passed through Haliburton August 23 on an 800 km trail ride. Led by Canadian off-road champion Blair Sharpless, the motorcyclists stops included Bobcaygeon, Haliburton and Whitney, before returning to their overnight stop at Bonnie View Inn.

Residents on the mend

By the time you read this, the Labour Day weekend will have come and gone. We hope everyone enjoyed it. Maybe some of you went to the Kinmount Fair, a lot of you squeezing the last days of summer in and many, we're sure, getting the children ready for school. We have enjoyed our summer events, but there is still lots of time left to enjoy activities outside.

On August 22, Lola Prentice enjoyed a visit with her sister-in-law, Alice, and they both joined in happy hour with the Grandfathers. Also taking part in the happy hour was our old friend Doris, who was at her usual spot at the piano. Now that was a good afternoon of entertainment.

Saturday was an important day for Laura Upton. Laura attended the wedding of her grandson at Minden United Church, with reception and dance following. The next day, Laura visited a family member's home to view the wedding gifts as they were unwrapped.

On Monday the 25th, some of us participated in the weekly 'keep fit' and 'morning stretch' followed by bingo in the afternoon. That evening, Winnie Barnum was taken out for dinner by her son and his wife. It is nice to have these little treats now and then.

Tuesday is our weekly chapel. This week Reverend Wicks presided. Our regular craft group in the afternoon, and in the evening many of us enjoyed our weekly cards under the faithful supervision of Pearl and Corinne, two caring volunteers.

Wednesday, August 27, we welcomed back Ruby

Schmidt and Joe McCann. Ruby is recovering from a broken hip and Joe has been under the weather for a short time. Good to see you both.

By the way, we are missing Julie on the weekend nursing shift.

Time again for the 'Highland Rover' to whisk us away for another countryside drive. This week we toured the Furnace Falls and Irondale areas. Furnace Falls is a pretty spot for a picnic. Back home again for dinner and then to the Main Lounge for our evening enjoyment. "In Harmony" entertained with their singing and music. This group consists of local people from all walks of life who get together in harmony and friendship. A lovely group to experience.

We send wishes for a speedy recovery to Rick Edwards in Hospital. Hope to have you back with us soon.

Now its Thursday again. This afternoon is our monthly birthday tea party, with Minden A.C.W. Thank you!

We missed Winnie Barnum's help today in writing this column. Hope she comes back with good news from the specialist.

This evening Muriel Harrison is invited to dinner with Isobel Christian, a long-time friend and neighbour.

A happy saying to leave you with: "The secret of happiness is to count your blessings--not your birthdays."

Every home should have an emergency candle, so when the lights go out you can find the toys that have the batteries that were borrowed from the flashlight.

The Alzheimer Society of Peterborough and Area announce "brown bag lunches" every Tuesday between 12 noon and 2 p.m. starting on September 9 at the Alzheimer office, 243 Charlotte St., Peterborough. For more information contact Donna at 705-748-5131.

I was talking to Gerry Ryan recently and she and Howie were just thrilled with the 50th wedding anniversary party that their children Don, Bruce, Joan and their spouses and children threw for them. They were joined afterwards by 25 of their friends and family at the Noble Motel for a really great meal. Gerry and Howie just couldn't say enough to express their appreciation.

St. Paul's Friendship Club welcomed several guests last week at its weekly euchre-with-a-friend party. One of them, Joan Craig, won the 50/50 draw. (I hope this means she will come back). Another guest, Joyce Noble, had the high score for ladies while Marie Dennie had the high "men's" score. Low score went to Betty Hardy and most lone hands to Marg McAfee. Join in the friendship and fun Mondays starting at 1:30 p.m. in the Church building.

Two middle-aged longtime friends were chatting. "Have you ever realized any of your childhood hopes?" "Yes." came the reply, "When Mother used to comb my hair, I often wished I didn't have any."

Club 35 meet Mondays at 7:30 p.m. for euchre and companionship. Last week the high scores were awarded to Verna Sawyer and Bill Cowen; the low scores to Edith Russell and Harold Smith; and the most lone hands to Mary Schad. The baloney was won by Peggy Awde; the skunk by Alf Whyman; and the 50/50 draw went to Dorothy Walters.

It would appear that the companionship would have to be pretty good to receive skunks and balonies but why don't you see for yourself. You are most welcome to join in and partners are not required.

At the Stanhope Firefighters Hall last week there were 8 tables going for contract bridge and the top winner was Len McNeice followed by Ross Fletcher and then Fred Heald. (Notice the all-male cast). One small slam was bid and made by Ross Fletcher and Muriel McIntosh. Join in the fun every Tuesday at 1 p.m. - partners are not required. This week they are still at the Firehall but starting next week (September 9) they move to the Stanhope Library.

Seniors bid euchre is played each week on Tuesdays in the Minden Legion starting at 1:30 p.m. Last Tuesday, the top winner was Shirley Elcome followed by Gala Stamp and then Jack Chilton. The hidden score went to Beverly Johnson who also had a moonshot. Other 'moonshoters' were Jack Chilton, Pat Roussel, Marcel Roussel and Esther Lee.

A teacher was trying to motivate an under-performing pupil - "When George Washington was your age, he was head of his class". The lazy pupil thought for a moment - "Yea, but when he was your age, he was president of the United States!"

A lot goes on in the Stanhope Firefighters Hall including bid euchre every Wednesday starting at 7 p.m. On August 20, they had 3 moonshots while Gala Stamp had the high score of 289 followed by Jean Scadden 272, Mary Schad 269, Peter Laplante 269, Jim Irwin 264, Harold Smith 264 and Maxine Thomson 252. Plan to join the fun.

Euchre results from the Minden Legion for the play Thursday, August 21 was most lone hands to Sherin Brown and Frank Campagnolo, high scores to Lila Mitchell and Truman McNeil and low scores to Murray MacKinnon. Lots of other prizes were left over for Pearl Cowan, Jack Chilton, Jim Bradbury, Marg McAfee, Marion Irwin and Tod Edgson. Meet at 7:15 p.m. Thursdays.

Club 35 members, Halls Lake, enjoy their new found freedom every Friday at 7 p.m. for bid euchre. On August 22 Marion Farr astounded the group with a 272 followed by Elsie Henderson 265, Jeanne Penick 260, Peter Farr 260, Brian Henderson 244 and Jim Skinner 244. The dear Edith Russell had the hidden score along with Frank Campagnolo while the sole moonshot was captured by Margaret Fletcher. In addition to all this fun four door prizes were given out. Have you marked your calendars yet for the pot luck supper September 12?

HEALTH NEWS:

Stir and rotate your food for even cooking. If your microwaves does not have a turntable, rotate the dish by hand once or twice during cooking. Always be sure to observe the "standing time" called for in a recipe as standing time finishes the cooking of the food.

Most glass and plastic cookware can be used safely in a microwave oven, however, to test its effectiveness -

1) Take the empty container to be tested and place it in the microwave oven.

2) Place with it a Pyrex measuring cup containing 1 cup of water.

3) Start the microwave for one minute on high.

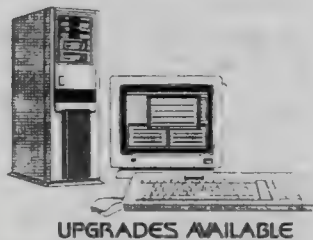

4) If the empty container is warm or hot to the touch, after one minute, it is unsuitable for use in a microwave oven.
